
Overview

This standard is about dealing with poor performance of your team, and the individuals within it.

This standard is for you if you are a manager with responsibility for

1. allocating work to others
2. achieving specific results by using resources effectively within a defined area of authority, and
3. assessing and providing feedback on performance against programmes and budgets.

In order to support team members you need to identify poor performance promptly and provide opportunities for team members to discuss any problems they may have. You will need to provide advice and guidance to team members and agree a course of action to improve unsatisfactory performance.

In order to implement disciplinary and grievance procedures and dismiss team members you need to ensure that your actions are impartial and fair and that any procedures comply with organisational and legal requirements.
